

GENEVA PEACE WEEK

6–10 November 2017

Prevention Across Sectors and Institutions

Geneva Peace Week 2017 will focus on the theme of prevention with 50 events over 5 days.

Join us for an exciting week that will look at progress in the prevention of violent conflict at multilateral, national and sub-national levels.

Geneva Peace Week is open to multiple sectors and institutions providing a diverse angle towards solutions for violent conflict and the future of prevention policies and programmes.

Full programme available early October

“Prevention is not merely a priority, but the priority. If we live up to our responsibilities, we will save lives, reduce suffering and give hope to millions”

ANTÓNIO GUTERRES,
United Nations Secretary-General, address to Members of the UN Security Council on 10 January 2017
